Business Description

The Middle East is one of the few areas that abounds with mines rich in Gilsonite. Due to the geographical location of the region and its access to a variety of rail, sea and land transport routes, the export potential of the Middle East is very high and therefore, it is possible to export promptly and conveniently from this region to all countries around the world.

The Gilsonite products in this area are of very high quality, and therefore, are among the best in the world. The price of this product is very low in the Middle East and it brings a lot of profit for the traders. Accordingly, the Gilsonite produced in this area is of high value, and is widely known as one of the best export targets for traders in this field.

This valuable material is used in many fields, the most important of which are :

- Construction of asphalt and road surface
- Making bitumen mortar
- Drilling oil wells
- Casting industry
- Painting industry
- Chemical products
